

Children's eyes need attention

Children experience the world through their eyes. These go through an astonishing development especially during the first year of life. Your child can only develop its eye-sight, when it is acute. Some children – and this may be the case with infants already – need visual aids that correct possible ametropia for this development.

On the following pages we will inform you about

- what you have to consider about your child's sight development and how you can assist it
- which special sight problems occur in school and how you can relieve this
- which visual aid the right one is for your child